"I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth." III John 4

Second-generation of birthday "Queens." Happyface plate, Gracie and mama, Shalom.

precious memories how they linger

By Shoshanna (Pearl) Easling, owner of ShoshannaGardens.com

TODAY I TURNED 23 YEARS OLD. Birthdays make me smile. I treasure every birthday memory. It is not because my birthday memories are filled with parties and gifts received. They aren't. My mom did something better. When my mom had no more than a nickel in her purse, she created precious memories. There were times in my youth when all we had to eat was cabbage and cornbread. I remember hiding our small supply of butter when one particular visitor stopped by to eat with us. Yet, every September 13th I would awaken with a knowing smile. Mom would be cooking our special "Egg La'Pearla Mountain" birthday breakfast. The birthday person would find his or her place at the table set with special decorations, which we thought were fit for a king or queen. My spot would be adorned with a placemat made from our best and newest dish towel. The fanciest plate we had would be sitting in the middle, and the utensils would be wrapped in a nice, smaller dish rag and laid out like the finest restaurant in town. On one side of our placemat would be a fancy wineglass (purchased at the second-hand store) full of fresh cow's milk. On the other side of the plate would be a jar of water with a pretty wildflower in it, all of this creating an illusion of wonder and delight in my young mind. Under the plate would be a one-dollar bill from my brothers. Oh, what excitement! The thrill of anticipating the morning of my birthday was beyond words. One day each year, I was Queen. Queen! Treated like royalty! That day I did not do the dishes. It was MY DAY. During much of my younger years, my parents were as poor as church mice, so all they had to give was a genuine grand statement that we were special to them. As time passed, their circumstances allowed them to buy presents; but after being Queen for the day, presents seemed almost unimportant. More than any present, each year I looked forward to that glorious feeling of being very, very cherished and special.

Here I am today, a happily married mother. This birthday morning, my husband woke me and smiled, "Do you want me to make you a breakfast?" He could buy me gifts, but those dear birthday memories are so ingrained in me that all I wanted was that special place at Mom's table and the warm fuzzies that accompany the day. "No! Let's go to Mom and Dad's. She will make breakfast for both of us." He smiled! He understands my desire to go back, and for just one day a year, to recapture those precious moments, "Today I am Queen. It is my birthday!" ❖

What is the best method for studying the Bible?

Starting with the final authority

By Michael Pearl

I AM ASKED THAT QUESTION regularly. The answer is quite simple, or should be, except that in our modern biblical climate it is like telling a man how to hunt who doesn't believe in weapons. You will understand my analogy directly. Let's take it from the start.

I graduated from an independent Bible College with a Bachelor of Science degree, majoring in Bible and theology, and still did not know the Bible or how to study it. I loved theology classes, which were taught by a staunch Calvinist, finding them highly stimulating. I remember my Presbyterian Bible teacher most fondly. He loved the Word of God and loved teaching it. I questioned some of the things I was taught but was too busy and not well enough informed to effectively challenge my teachers. I just learned the lessons and took the tests, keeping busy traveling and preaching every weekend and some weeknights. It would be some years after graduation that I would discover the beauty of God's Word and learn the techniques of effective research.

When I was a young man, my pastor had often emphasized the passage, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (2 Timothy 3:16-17). That's what I wanted to be, taught in correct doctrine and furnished unto good works. The inspired Scripture was the avenue.

As a young preacher, I would hold up a King James Bible and confidently say, "This is God's Word, perfect and infallible." The independent evangelical Bible College I attended advertised that it boldly stood for the "plenary, verbal inspiration of the Scriptures." Plenary means "full and complete and not limited in any way," and verbal, means "every single word was inspired, with none added and none missing." But in my very first college class, I was informed that the King James Bible was poorly translated. Therefore, in class we would use a "better" translation—the American Standard Version, along with several others when the ASV didn't say what the professors wanted it to say. I asked, "What about 'All Scripture is given by inspiration and is profitable...?'"

They quickly pointed out that the KJV was in error there also. The ASV reads, "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching..." implying that not all Scripture is inspired of God." Only that which is inspired is profitable for doctrine. So, my next question to my teachers was, "Which Scripture is inspired of God; which one can I read and know it is the words of God with no mixture of the words of men? Is the ASV the real Word of God?" Their answer: "No, it is not Scripture inspired of God either; no English translation is. Only the original languages were inspired of God." That presented a difficulty, but not for long, for I started out my first semester taking Greek. So I would just learn Greek, and then I would be able to actually read the Scripture that is inspired of God and is profitable for establishing doctrine.

It felt good, knowing that I would be able to uncover the riches of the original language. Daily in our classes the professors corrected the KJ Bible with "the Greek." But they corrected the other many translations as well, pointing out the poor qualities of each. I kept wondering why someone didn't just make a translation that was correct and then let it alone so we could learn from it. But, several new translations came onto the market during my four years in college. There are over 200 of them now. Very quickly, I lost faith in the prospect of reading any English Bible and believing it to be the plenary, verbally inspired, written Word of God.

So there I was, a young preacher with his faith in the old book momentarily shattered. But, I had a new hope of once again recovering that sweet ground of assurance and trust where I could actually sit down and read God's Word, believing all that I read without having to approach the text critically.

I jumped into my Greek studies with a zest, and in a few weeks of Greek grammar and memorizing the definitions of Greek words, we were actually "reading" from our 25th edition of the Aland Greek New Testament. And then it hit me. I was not reading an "inspired" Greek text any more than when I read another English translation. Every definition, every phrase, every noun and every verb were defined for me by one man—the man who compiled our Greek grammar. With a shock, I realized that after 20 years of Greek study, I would still be relying on definitions found in some book written by other men. In time, I would have enough information catalogued to be somewhat "original" in my scholarly opinions, but I would still just be one man with an opinion, colored by the school of thought in which I was raised.

The Bible was no longer a book I held in my hand. It could only be accessed by jumping through the many hoops of Greek word studies, Greek and Hebrew lexicons, commentaries, and theology books. I was uncomfortable quoting any passage of Scripture and saying, "Thus saith the Lord." "Thus saith A.T. Robertson" was more like it. So, my final authority was no longer to other Bible Colleges at the same time I did, were more disturbed than I. One of them became a Sodomite, one an atheist, and one an agnostic. One, who was already pastoring a Southern Baptist Church, divorced his young wife and quit the ministry before he even finished Bible College. Out of seven of us who started in the ministry, only two survived the four years still "in the faith".

I graduated with less faith in the Bible than when I started. With no more classes to attend, and less time spent traveling, I found time to investigate the Bible for myself. At first I tried the study method that I had learned in college. When I came to a difficult passage, I opened all the commentaries to see what they said. They differed greatly. I also went through a stack of different English translations, finding that they differed as much as the denominations differ in their understanding. I then got out my Greek and Hebrew lexicons and word studies to see if they would shed any light. More confusion. The Greek scholars disagree significantly. How was I to be so bold as to know which one to believe and which ones to reject?

Then someone gave me a book called, Which Bible, by David Fuller. I was blown away. I acquired a dozen other works on the same subject, by John Burgon, Wilson, Dr. Peter Ruckman, and others. Why didn't they tell me this in Bible College? Surely they weren't ignorant of it. Did they intend to deceive me? The Greek Bible that I was using was not the original Bible. It was created—manufactured—less than 100 years earlier by two unbelieving infidels and pawned words, the ASV and the New International Version, and 200 other translations are not based on the same Greek text as is the King James. The reason that a 90-year-old text could be in its 26th edition is because the owner of it changes it every few years. Between the 26th and 27th editions there were over 600 changes. When you hear a preacher say, "The original Greek text says...", you must ask him "Which Greek text? There are 24 of them. Which edition?" Here today, gone tomorrow. They are standing in the pulpit and correcting your English Bible based on a Greek text that changes every few years. Where is the standard? Where is God's Word? Where is the jot and tittle that will not pass away? Was God mistaken about preserving his word forever? Can you hold a book in your hand, any book, any language, and say it is "Scripture inspired of God"?

I have a hard time believing in conspiracy theories. But I quote from the 1990 book, The Dead Sea Scrolls After Forty Years. It is the transcript of four scholars speaking at a symposium to their peers. For a moment, they were quite candid. James Sanders, Ph.D., who served on the committee that put out the New Revised Standard Version, and author of many other scholarly works, on pages 70-71 says, "I think it is time for us to stop fooling the people, making them think that there is just one Bible and that our Bible committee got closer to it than their committee did." But then he goes on to voice his reluctance to do so, because of the impact it would have to tell the truth. He says, "I have been told by some that that would just destroy the Bible, because lay folk still want to think of the Bible as somehow 'inerrant.'" The greater context makes this look even worse. That was over sixteen years ago, as of this writing, and still they have not told you the truth about what they believe. They don't want to shatter your misguided faith that the Bible is "somehow inerrant." They don't think it is wise to let you know that there are actually two different Greek Bibles, and that all their modern versions are based on a corrupted minority text that has been historically rejected by God's people down through the ages. The King James Bible is accurate to the text from which it was translated. It is the Word of God to English speaking people. You can believe every word in it without resorting to anyone's opinion about the validity of the text. On that ground, you can read and study your Bible and learn from it.

We started out to tell you how to study the Bible. You may think I changed the subject. Not so. How can you study the Bible if ger the Bible I could confidently convey to the congregation and tell them to go home and study it, believing every word in it. My final authority for the moment was a select group of Greek scholars—the ones I chose to believe over the others. The differences in the "bibles" they were publishing testified to their inability to agree on the meaning of the "original Greek." But somehow, I knew that there would come a time when I would not have to trust them in determining what the words of God were; I would become informed enough to trust no one but myself—and the leading of the Holy Spirit, of course. (I fully expect you to detect the subtle note of cynicism and sarcasm.)

Many of my young preacher friends, who were members of my home church and off on the Church as authentic. It is just one of 24 different Greek texts. Furthermore, it is not even the same Greek text from which the King James Bible was translated. To correct the KJ based on this new text was like trying to update a 1935 Ford according to the pattern of a 1965 Volkswagen. Somebody was fooling somebody. There was a real conspiracy to deprive me of the words of God and replace them with the words and opinions of men. I discovered that this modern Greek text differed from the traditional text of the King James Bible in over 6,000 places.

This corrupt text is the standard Greek text of nearly every Bible College in America, and the basis of all late 19th, 20th and 21st century English translations. In other you don't believe it is available to read? If you believe what I was taught in Bible College, then most of your Bible study time is spent trying to determine the best possible text. Furthermore, you must wade through Greek and Hebrew lexicons and decide which scholars you will believe. In the final analysis, you are not studying the Bible; you are studying what other men believe about it. The average person soon grows weary of chasing his tail and gives up, leaving it to the Big Guys with Ph.D.s to tell him what to believe.

Space does not allow me to give you here all the evidence for the things I have said, but we distribute a book by Dr. Floyd Jones, Which Version is the Bible, which provides a good history and overview of this subject.

When I discovered the evidence confirming that the King James Bible is indeed accurately translated and is the preserved Scripture inspired of God, Bible study became simple and a pure joy! Just read what it says, and believe it. All you need is a King James Bible without notes, a Strong's Concordance (hard copy or computer), a Treasury of Scripture Knowledge, and a Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, tenth edition or earlier (see panel to the right for more info). You must learn the Bible by learning the 66 individual books. Books are learned by understanding paragraphs. Paragraphs are learned by understanding sentences, and sentences are understood by knowing the meaning of individual words. Very often, doctrines hang on the meaning of a single word. You arrive at the meaning of an individual word by using your concordance to find and read every time that word is used anywhere in the Bible. The Bible will define its own words by the multiple contexts in which it is used. The Treasury of Scripture Knowledge is just a giant center-column cross-reference. It will lead you to similar passages anywhere in the Bible. This dictionary is a quick reference to the definition of words as they were used in the seventeenth century, when the King James Bible was translated, so you won't have to worry about "archaic" words.

My book Repentance is an example of how to study the Bible. You will see the process unfolding as we gather the meaning of words and come to a conclusion. When you have justifiable confidence in the text you are reading, you don't have to ask what a passage means; you just determine what it says in its context and believe it. ❖

Winter Orange Tea

By Shoshanna (Pearl) Easing

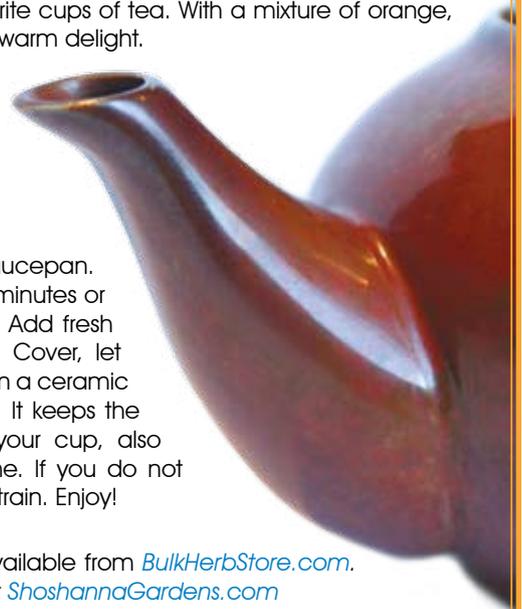

Fuzzy socks, pretty scarves, snow, and long underwear—winter is here. Long afternoon naps and hot cups of tea are everywhere.

What is it about a hot cup of tea? It is so inspirational. I want to teach you how to make one of my favorite cups of tea. With a mixture of orange, cinnamon, and cloves; it is a warm delight.

- 2 C. water
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 5 cloves
- Half of an orange peel
- Juice from one orange
- 2 bags of Orange tea

Put first 5 ingredients in a saucepan. Cook on medium heat for 5 minutes or until simmering, turn off heat. Add fresh orange juice and tea bags. Cover, let stand 5 minutes. I put my tea in a ceramic teapot that has a tea guard. It keeps the ingredients from getting in your cup, also keeps it warm for a long time. If you do not have a ceramic teapot, just strain. Enjoy!

Training a Child to “Come”

Cheerful training early on can save on later discipline

By Shalom (Pearl) Brand

AS A YOUNG MOTHER, I watch and take note of the different ways parents train or don't train their children. Everyone calls me the “soft-hearted Pearl”, and knowing this to be truth, I knew that I would have to train my children so well that I would not have to rely on spanking. Therefore I gave diligence to early training.

When Gracie was first born, every time I picked her up I would say, “Come to mama.” This simple, cheerful command was conditioning my tiny baby to come to me in response to my voice. She came to associate the command with feelings of being close to me. Even though at one week old she had no idea what “Come to mama” meant, nonetheless, she quickly came to identify the sound, rhythm, and tone of my voice with the pleasure of being drawn to me. I hoped that after she became mobile and heard my command to come, she would respond without hesitation, and at 22 months of age, it has worked beautifully. And it is a good thing I got the jumpstart on training, because everyone will tell you that Gracie is the most impetuous and independent of all the nine Pearl grandkids.

This simple, pleasant, early training has translated into success in other issues as well. I have never had to chase her, spank her, or fear for her life when she takes off running for the road or any place that could be dangerous, because with one simple command, she stops, turns, and comes running to me with joy. I used the same training technique when commanding her to sit, stand, and get dressed. When she was still an infant, unable to sit up, I would say, “Stand up, Gracie,” when I lifted her to a standing position. When I cleaned up her toys I carried her in my arms, all the while communicating with her what we were doing, like “Clean up your toys, Gracie.” Now at 22 months old, she is a cleaning machine and has been since she could walk. It has never been necessary to spank her or to speak to her in an intimidating voice when commanding her to pick up after herself, because she just “knows” it is the thing to do. Just as the word “eat” means eat and the word “clean” means clean, the word “come,” means come. Many parents will ask their baby to come, but when the child runs in the opposite direction, they chase the “cute baby,” catching him up in their arms with kisses and laughter. But even when you are playing, you are training. You are training them that running away from mama is a way to be loved.

When my husband and I have gone to seminars with my parents, people often come up to me and ask how they can re-train their small children to come to them. If you have been chasing your little sweetheart around every time you say ‘come,’ then you have trained him to think that the word ‘come’ means ‘run away’. The poor fellow does not understand why Mama is suddenly short-tempered with him. This turn of events causes the baby to become upset and insecure, for it is you who are acting out of character, not

he. If you ask the little one to come and when he doesn't you chase him down and spank him, you are spanking him for acting just as you trained him to act. Your spanking alone will not work to re-train.

You need to be creative in breaking this “well-trained” habit. You must create a new mindset. Get your husband or one of your other children to help. Have your helper play with your toddler to get him distracted, then call for him to come. Have your helper immediately take the child's hand and lead him to you while telling the child, “Mama said, come.” Do this simple training exercise several times over the next few days until your baby begins to respond on cue. Most toddlers will respond correctly, but if he balks when your helper takes the little one's hand, then have the helper spat the child's legs to reinforce the command.

This past week, I had the opportunity to try this while taking care of my sister's one-year-old son. I enlisted the help of my little girl, and it worked. I would say, “Come to mama, Gracie. Bring the baby with you.” And, to her great joy, she would take his hand and lead him to me. He thought it was great fun, and by the time he went home, he was beginning to learn the word COME. I told my sister, and she called him and he responded right away. We were both so excited to see the results of just a little training. ❖

FROM THE MAILBOX

DEAR PEARLS,

Thanks so much for your materials. One of your illustrations rang a bell. Years ago, our #1 son voiced a complaint about his list of Saturday chores. His father quietly added another chore, “When you are finished with ‘x’, then do ‘y.’” Our son muttered something, and his father quietly said, “And after you do ‘y’, do ‘z.’” He then commented, “Boy, I might just get my garage totally cleaned out today!” Silence. Our son went to work. He became happier as he worked. To this day, an electrical engineer, 45, he loves to work, and he also loves his father and me.

—Mrs. B.W.

JOY OF PARENTING

Your books have changed my life. I have rediscovered the joy of being a parent. When I wake up in the morning, I look forward to the joy of parenting instead of dreading what struggles the day may hold.

In Him,

—Candi

DEAR DEBI,

I wanted to thank you for saving my marriage! “Created to be His Help Meet” was the most painful and wonderful book I have ever read on marriage. Thank you so much for not pulling any punches, and for telling it God's way.

—Sandy

Keeping Your Children First

It's our duty as parents to surround our children with healthy activities and friends

By Gabriel Pearl

IN TODAY'S FAST PACED LIFESTYLE, time flies by so quickly. It seems that it was just a few years ago that I started my construction company, but when I actually sit down and do the math, I realize it's been 10 years. Time flies by quickly for adults, but not so for children. Children are brimming with a need—a need that folks over 30 often forget ever existed. It is a need to do something; anything, really, just so long as it's “something.” Let me explain.

When I was in my early teens, I took up every kind of sport from tennis to hunting. Looking back, I can see that my choice of friends and activities were not happenstance; everything was carefully guided. When I was 14 years old, I decided to ride my bike to my grandparents' house—170 miles away. It seemed like a good plan at the time. Mom and Dad were going the next day, so I could come back with them. It was mid July, and after 150 miles on my 10 speed Huffy bike, in a humid 102 degrees, with nothing but a 2-liter Coke to drink, I realized it was not the greatest idea after all. My legs locked up in cramps. “Next time,” I told myself, “I should bring water.” From a physical standpoint, it was a stupid idea, as my dad already well knew, but from an eternal standpoint, there was no loss, just two sore legs. It was one of my “somethings.”

Looking back, the activities I chose were healthy activities that my parents steered me toward. As an adult, I can now see clearly that the things we choose in those precarious teenage years are building blocks for the rest of our lives. If you prevent your children from exploring the world of possibilities, or if you cloister them away from friends, preventing them from doing “something,” it will backfire when they finally get big enough to seize their freedom. They will explode into the world of possibilities with no discernment and no self-control. If you do not provide your teenagers with things to do, they will do one of three things:

- 1.) They will rebel and find their own activities, be they good or bad.
- 2.) In their later years (once they move out of the house, or by the time they even reach their early 20's) they will begin experimenting with a variety of things that as a child and teenager they never had the opportunity to do.
- 3.) They will become lazy and indifferent, and lose their drive and ambitions.

When they are still children or young teenagers you can guide and direct them, but once they leave your home the opportunity is gone. It's not just our obligation as parents, but our duty to surround our children with healthy activities and friends. By creating a proper environment, we can allow our children to maintain their individuality without sacrificing their morality.

I was fortunate enough to live in an environment where I could create healthy activities. I said, “fortunate,” but that's not really accurate; it was a very calculated, collective decision made by my parents, and at the time I didn't even know it. We were kept busy all the time with “something.” During that time of keeping busy, all of us kids discovered what we did and didn't want to do in the future, whether it was the kind of work we were doing or our latest hobby.

Education and financial stability are great American luxuries, but they must be kept in balance. What makes this country great can also destroy it. I can honestly say, looking back, that we children were never put on the back burner for the sake of ministry or my father's occupation. Rather, they carefully integrated us into their work, their ministry, and their play. And for that, I will be eternally grateful. So, whether you make six thousand or six million a year, always remember to keep those kids first.

Military Ministry

Mike and Debi have had a heart for ministering to our military since before they were married. As a single man, Mike would preach several nights a week on the streets of Millington, TN to the soldiers passing through the base. Debi would sweetly draw them into church to hear the gospel, and she served the wounded in the hospital.

These days, it is through No Greater Joy's Military Ministry that they reach out. Soldiers in harm's way are more open to the gospel. We want to supply these soldiers and their families with material that will encourage, comfort and strengthen them through the pressures they are facing.

Thank you so much for your ministry. It has changed my life. I am married to a wonderful man and we have 4 children. He is in the USMC and you sent him a package and sent one to me, too. I have read, lent out and reread "Help Meet". It has changed everything. I come from a broken family of abuse and neglect. I wanted very much to have a family of my own someday and promised to be the best wife and mother I could be. I not only have the desire to be a blessing to my family, but now I have the knowledge and the teaching. Page 15 really touches me: your desire to teach us and the fact that no matter where we came from, we can become a heavenly-gift bride. Again, thank you.

- Beverly

Send us the name and address of any military personal actively serving overseas, and we will send them a selection of our best products, free. Be sure and send the name and address of their family (if they have one) and we'll send them a packet of materials, and goodies for the children too!

We're pleased to say, since February, 2005, we have sent out over 2,200 military packages! But there are so many more that we could serve. We can only get it to them if you, our readers, send us the names and addresses. Think about it; maybe you have a relative, a neighbor or the son of someone in your church serving our country. Take the time to get their information and send it to us, it will be a huge blessing to them!

If you would like to be a part of this ministry, send your gift designated to "Military Ministry".

No Greater Joy is a non-profit ministry to families in many nations around the globe. Though we ship a large amount of material overseas, the high cost of shipping makes it difficult for some families to order our material. We would like to see an even wider distribution in places like Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain, Israel, South Africa, and many other countries. Therefore, we have asked our general manager, Mel Cohen, to put together a distributorship program that will make our material more available in foreign countries, and more economically priced for those of you who are retailing our books and audios in small bookstores and homeschool conventions in the USA. If you maintain a stock of our material in a foreign country, if you choose, we will publish your address on our website, so your countrymen can order directly from you and save the high shipping cost from the U.S.

See Business in a Box on our website NoGreaterJoy.org.

PHONE ORDERS Nov. 15

No Greater Joy will tentatively begin offering phone ordering November 15, 2006. At the same time, we'll open the MP3 download section of our website where you can purchase and download many of our audio products in MP3.

There is a dearth of Bible knowledge across this land. Bible teaching has been replaced with principle-based, self-improvement psychology. More than ever, we want to get these Bible messages into your hands so we have priced them right down to what it costs us to provide them. In the course of the ministry, at our discretion, we give many of them away, the cost of which is covered by your gifts.

Many professing Christians who don't have a personal relationship with Christ are seeking meaning in Rabbinical Judaism, keeping feast days and Sabbaths, and resorting to using Hebrew words for God and Jesus. God free you from the curse of pop theology.

1 Cassette 3730-40 $5.00
1 CD 3730-45 $5.00

GOD'S ETERNAL PROGRAM

1 CD 3610-45 $5.00

GOD HATES SINNERS

3 Cassettes 8320-40 $12.00
3 CDs 8320-41 $12.00

SECURITY OF THE BELIEVER

You will be surprised at what you hear. The Church (at large) has been divided, both sides holding to a portion of Scripture while explaining away the other Scripture. Can one believe all the Scripture on both sides of the issue? Absolutely.

2 Cassettes 8322-40 $10.00
3 CDs 8322-45 $12.00

SINFUL NATURE

These four messages answer some of the ridiculous teachings of an ancient heresy sometimes called "Calvinism." For too long, Reformed theology has robbed the church of the power of God. The petals fall off of Calvin's tulip when it is held up to the light of Scripture.

3 Cassettes 8330-40 $12.00
3 CDs 8330-45 $12.00

SIN NO MORE

The big question is: "So how do I stop sinning?" You have confessed your sins, received the baptism of the Holy Ghost with evidence of everything but ceasing to sin; yet you are still a Romans 7 Christian. I assure you, God not only saves his children from the penalty of sin but he saves them from its power as well. You can stop sinning.

7 Cassettes 8315-40 $24.00
9 CDs 8315-41 $28.00

SIN NO MORE & SANCTIFICATION MP3

Two sets of messages on one MP3 CD.

MP3 (1 CD) 8315-55 $12.50

SONS OF GOD AND GIANTS

The Jews have taught it for 3,500 years. The church fathers believed it and wrote of it. It has been commonly believed by Bible Believers down through the ages, but it is too radical for our present generation. They will ridicule you if you believe it.

1 Cassette 8336-40 $5.00

1 CD 8336-45 $5.00

WHEN FORGIVENESS IS A SIN

The Bible does not teach that Christians are to forgive everyone. In some cases it would be a sin to forgive. See what the Bible says and free yourself from the bondage of modern psycho babble.

1 Cassette 9580-40 $5.00

1 CD 9580-45 $5.00

Books about the Bible

EIGHT KINGDOMS

The Bible speaks of eight kingdoms. You can't see one of them. One is coming but you can't be a part of it. Another must be resisted. You have been removed from another. You must honor another that is evil. One is now fighting for its life. One is going to smash all the others and reign forever on the earth. If you don't want to be challenged, don't bother buying this book.

This book would be a gift your pastor would truly enjoy.

Book 8328-10 $12.95
Box of 34 8328-99 $265.00

GOOD AND EVIL

Written by Michael Pearl and featuring spectacular artwork by Marvel Comic artist Danny Bulanadi. Over 300 pages illustrated in comic book format show the Bible stories in a chronological approach. Great for any child, teen or as Sunday School material.

Book 3750-10 $12.95
Box of 26 3750-99 $200.00

Booklets

All booklets are $1.50 each or $1 each for 25 or more of any one of the below. These are great resources for teachers to use in Bible classes.

1 JOHN 1:9 THE PROTESTANT CONFESSIONAL

A core belief held by most conservative Christians is that Christians who have unconfessed sins in their life are in need of forgiveness, are out of fellowship with God, and are walking in darkness. The underlying assumption is that God forgives only sins that are confessed. What does the Bible teach? Does God withhold forgiveness until sin is confessed? Not on your life.

23 pg. Booklet 4650-10 $1.50

BAPTISM IN JESUS' NAME

There are those who insist that New Testament water baptism is not valid unless the one doing the baptism vocally utters the words "in Jesus' name." It is the conclusion of this study that the verbal utterance is never an issue in Scripture. It is erroneous to insist on any certain phrase being pronounced over the baptized.

IN DEFENSE OF BIBLICAL CHASTISEMENT

Michael brings clear understanding back into the confusing and often misunderstood subject of corporal chastisement. After firmly laying the Biblical foundation for chastisement, he then answers the question, "How do I apply corporal chastisement properly?" Finally, he shows the effectiveness of Biblical chastisement demonstrated in those families that practice it as taught.

29 pg. Booklet 4530-10 $1.50

JUSTIFICATION AND THE BOOK OF JAMES

James clearly teaches that works justify a man while Paul teaches that a man is not justified by works. Are they contradicting each other? Which one is correct? This study resolves the issue once and for all.

PORNOGRAPHY - ROAD TO HELL

While most ministers avoid the subject, Michael Pearl addresses the deadly scourge of pornography head-on. He shows how repentance toward God and the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ can break the bondage of this wicked perversion through the abundant mercy and grace of a loving God. There is hope for the man caught in the snare of pornography and hope for the helpless, angry wife who finds it difficult to honor him.

TO BETROTH OR NOT TO BETROTH

All Christian parents want their children to have God's first and best in all areas of their lives, and this includes marriage. In an effort to avoid the dangers of the modern dating game, families are giving attention to the concept of betrothal. The dangers of the betrothal system are exposed with the light of biblical truth, bringing objectivity back to an often-misunderstood subject.

28 pg. Booklet 1420-10 $1.50

Posters

REVELATION POSTER AND HANDBOOK

This poster is a print of an original painting done by Michael Pearl which shows the events of Revelation in chronological order. It is 40"x19" on heavy, glossy paper. The handbook which accompanies it is filled with Old Testament references and commentary to the events in Revelation.

Poster 8130-10 $12.00

Other Authors

WHICH VERSION IS THE BIBLE?

Author: Floyd Jones. Answers all your questions about Bible versions. Proof that the King James Bible is the perfect Word of God to the English-speaking people.

Book 9510-10 $10.00

THE OTHER SIDE OF CALVINISM

Author: Laurence M. Vance, Ph.D. This is a detailed historical examination and critical biblical analysis of Calvinism. Extensively documented from Calvinistic authorities, this book presents the other side to the over 400-year-old debate of the doctrines of Calvinism. Mike Pearl states, "This is the best book exposing the heresies of Calvinism. If you are a Bible believer concerned about TRUTH, this is a "must-read." Hard bound book of 788 pages.

DEAR MR. PEARL,

Thank you for your desire to give us the pure word of God and the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The gospel of justification and sanctification (so-called) has radically changed my life! As we went on the street to preach the gospel, I proclaimed the "full gospel." A Sodomite was there. Others who were ministering to him before I got down were telling him that Jesus understands, and can help him through it, but nobody gave him the Gospel again! I did, and it was the gospel that I have been trusting in the past few months (which has changed my life). When I told him all that Christ did to and for him, if he has believed, it was as if a light came on! This man had never heard what I proclaimed to him! The power was not of me but the Gospel! And, Lord willing, he will let God deliver him. Again this is just a little note to encourage you in your ministry. —Mike
